JOHNNY'S EAST RIVER LODGE

MEMORABLE

Johnny's East River Lodge

The Lodge was built in 1971 by Johnny and Janice Lowenstein. Located in Southeast Alaska, the Lodge is in one of the most beautiful places on earth. Designed to accommodate small groups, it has become the centerpiece for unforgettable trips shared amongst friends and family.

The Lodge is set on the rivers edge, watch the drama of Alaska unfold all day and night!

In 1989

Johnny passed away. Janice continues to run the Lodge with her sons Jeff and Jay. There is history here for those interested. Janice's father first came into the area in 1917. Curious? Just ask.

OUTSTANDING

Salmon & Trout Fishing

Have you ever heard stories of a river so full of salmon you could walk on their backs to cross it? Where every cast is hit aggressively by a fighting trophy? Stories like that don't usually end up to be true, though the East River may be the closest you will get to such a fable. Fly and spinner fishermen love the brushless terrain, both have been successful year after year. Fish from the skiff, bank or up to your waist in waders surrounded by pure Alaska beauty. No doubt you'll go home with some fish stories you might not be so generous to share!

Share a true Alaska experience that you'll never forget with friends or family!

INCREDIBLE

Bird Watching & Fowl Hunting

If you are into watching birds, this is the place. Johnny's East River Lodge is situated in a major North American flyway. Bald eagles, owls, seabirds, sandhill cranes, swans, ducks and geese are plentiful. Each fall literally thousands of birds inhabit the waterways around the lodge before continuing their journey south.

Enjoy some of the best bird hunting Alaska has to offer, early morning to late afternoon!

Ample duck and goose hunting utilizing natural and built blinds complimented with decoys are waiting for exciting and memorable hunts. Please no shooting or hunting in front of the lodge.
